

Q1 Does your practice charge patients a no show fee if they fail to cancel by a specific date?

Answered: 61 Skipped: 0

ANSWER CHOICES	RESPONSES
Yes	29.51%	18
No	70.49%	43
TOTAL		61

#	COMMENTS	DATE
1	But have considered it	10/14/2022 1:41 PM
2	No fee as it very difficult to collect, but most physicians will dismiss patient after 3 no shows in one year.	10/14/2022 10:46 AM
3	We have it posted but really don't enforce it.	10/14/2022 10:11 AM
4	If they cancel 3 times we will not reschedule	10/14/2022 10:06 AM
5	We have a little leniency with most patients but we charge habitual no shows $50	10/14/2022 9:31 AM
6	We have one with a policy, but are VERY flexible and rarely ever actually charge the fee.	10/14/2022 9:18 AM
7	With emergency surgeries we may have to reschedule on them at the last minute, so it would not be right to charge them when they are a no show. Also, the world is pretty stressed and no show charges make it much more stressful and difficult on patients.	10/14/2022 9:13 AM
8	Late cancel fee, missed appt fee, it is important to hold patients accountable and respect the physicians time set aside for the patients.	10/14/2022 9:12 AM
9	We would sure like to charge something though because it is becoming more and more an issue and when you are a very busy practice with people waiting a long time to get in, it is a huge problem.	10/14/2022 9:04 AM
10	Only with cosmetic consults	10/14/2022 8:18 AM
11	I wish we could as I think this would cut down on late cancelations and no shows.	10/14/2022 8:01 AM
12	But I wish there was a way to collect one	10/14/2022 7:48 AM